The Swiss AG (Aktiengesellschaft) is a highly regarded corporate structure, especially for medium to large enterprises and international businesses. Here are 10 key advantages:

1. Limited Liability: Shareholders' personal assets are protected, as their liability is limited to the amount of capital they have invested in the company. This minimizes personal financial risk.
2. Reputation and Credibility: Switzerland's stable economy, strong legal framework, and political neutrality provide an excellent reputation. A Swiss AG is often perceived as a prestigious and reliable entity, which can attract investors, partners, and customers globally.
3. Access to Capital and Flexibility in Capital Raising: An AG can issue shares (both registered and bearer shares, if fully paid up) to raise capital, making it easier to finance growth, expansion, or even go public. It offers more flexibility in capital increases compared to a GmbH.
4. Shareholder Anonymity (for non-publicly traded shares): For non-publicly listed AGs, the identities of shareholders are generally not publicly disclosed in the commercial register, providing a degree of privacy for investors. Only the names of the directors are public.
5. Strong Legal Framework: Switzerland boasts a robust and stable legal system, providing a high degree of certainty for companies and protecting their assets and interests.
6. Favorable Tax Regime: Switzerland offers a competitive corporate tax system with generally low corporate tax rates. Cantons have the right to set their own tax rates, which can lead to further tax incentives, particularly for holding companies. Switzerland also has an extensive network of double taxation treaties (DTTs), reducing the tax burden on international income.
7. Political and Economic Stability: The country's long-standing political neutrality and strong, prosperous economy create a secure and predictable environment for businesses to operate and grow.
8. Strategic Location: Situated in the heart of Europe, Switzerland offers excellent transport links and world-class infrastructure, serving as an ideal base for

9. Flexible Management Structure: While an AG requires a Board of Directors (with at least one Swiss resident director), it allows for a clear separation between ownership and management. Strategic decisions are made by the board, and day-to-day operations can be delegated.
10. International Appeal: There are generally no restrictions on foreign investors owning a Swiss AG, making it a welcoming jurisdiction for international companies looking to expand their global reach.
