70-Year History of Industrial Painting Systems Manufacturing Business

The company has been a prominent leader in the custom-made painting systems industry since its founding in 1953, driven by over 70 years of expertise, innovation, and a pioneering spirit. The Group also includes Faber, a renowned metalworking division, and Varnish Tech, a leading Italian company specializing in the design and installation of industrial coating systems for plastic components. Together, these entities strengthen our corporate structure and broaden our capabilities, enabling us to deliver comprehensive, high-quality solutions to customers worldwide.

With decades of expertise, the company designs and manufactures advanced industrial painting systems for multiple sectors:

Automotive

Comprehensive solutions for cathodic e-coating (including high-thickness), anaphoretic coating, manual and robotic paint application, and powder coating systems.

Aluminum

State-of-the-art technologies engineered to meet the specific demands of the aluminum painting industry.

Enameling

Specialized porcelain enamel coating systems for steel, cast iron, and aluminum applications, serving industries such as appliance manufacturing, architectural panels (interior and exterior), boilers, tanks, and more.

General Industry

Customized painting systems designed to accommodate a wide variety of industrial products and applications.

Painting Systems

Advanced Surface and Coating Line Technologies. The company stands at the forefront of surface treatment and coating system innovation. Our comprehensive solutions encompass spray booths, robotic painting systems, CO₂ cleaning technologies, painting plant management software, electrocoating, paint mix rooms, and OFB Disk systems—all designed to ensure precision, efficiency, and superior surface quality across every application.

The company not only provides systems but also offers a spare parts service, technical assistance, and post-sales support.
