

Authorised Payment Institution License (API)

Authorised Payment Institution License (API)

The FCA defines an authorised payment institution as an entity that is authorised to make payments and is included in the FCA's official register of APIs. The definition spans organisations such as credit card processors, payment account operators, remittance operators, foreign exchange businesses, and payment initiation businesses. Now that Safenetpay has evolved from API to EMI, it can issue and hold electronic money.

Permissions available within the API license:

- Services enabling cash to be placed on a payment account as well as all the operations required for operating a payment account
- Services enabling cash withdrawals from a payment account as well as all the operations required for operating a payment account
- Executing payment transactions (no credit line)
- Issuing and/or acquiring of payment instruments
- Money remittance
- Payment initiation services
- Account information services
